Capgemini recognized as Informatica's 2017 Big Data Partner of the Year

Paris, January 18, 2018 – Capgemini has been named as the "Big Data Partner of the Year for 2017" by Informatica®, the enterprise cloud data management leader. The award highlights Capgemini's strengths as a market leading services provider on Informatica technology across all aspects of the data lifecycle, including master data management, data quality, data masking and archiving and big data, with innovative and best-in-class assets.

"We are proud to be named as 'Informatica's Big Data Partner of the Year' for 2017. This is truly a recognition of our capabilities and strengths in Informatica's Big Data Management products and technology across all aspects of the data lifecycle," said Srikant Kanthadai, VP and Global Head of Data Management, Capgemini's Insights & Data Practice. "Capgemini has been an Informatica Global Partner for over five years now and together we are committed to delivering innovative and best-in class next gen Data Management solutions, enabling insight-driven transformation and rapid deployment in organizations worldwide."

Informatica Partner of the Year winners are partners that have consistently exceeded the criteria set within the Informatica Partner Program. Capgemini was selected based on performance, investment in skills, marketing campaign execution, revenue achievement, value-add and new customers obtained.

"We are delighted to recognize Capgemini with this award as a testament to their work in delivering innovative solutions to their customers. They have demonstrated exceptional foresight and a clear understanding of their customers' needs in terms of data management, insights and analytics," said Richard Ganley, senior vice president, Digital Transformation Solutions, Informatica.

Capgemini has previously scooped the "Next-Generation Analytics EMEA Partner Award" in 2015, "Information Lifecycle Management Partner of the Year Award" in 2014 and "Informatica Innovation Awards" in 2016 and 2014 by Informatica.
