

Capgemini Insurance Connect: A Platform as a Service Solution

Best-in-class insurance processing capabilities, on-demand and without the costly infrastructure

While every insurer needs to provide remarkable claims, policy and billing services, not every insurer—particularly small carriers—needs to build the systems, maintain the infrastructure or develop and run the processes. Smaller property and casualty (P&C) carriers in specific market segments now have access to on-demand, best-in-class applications across the policy lifecycle, through a monthly subscription model.

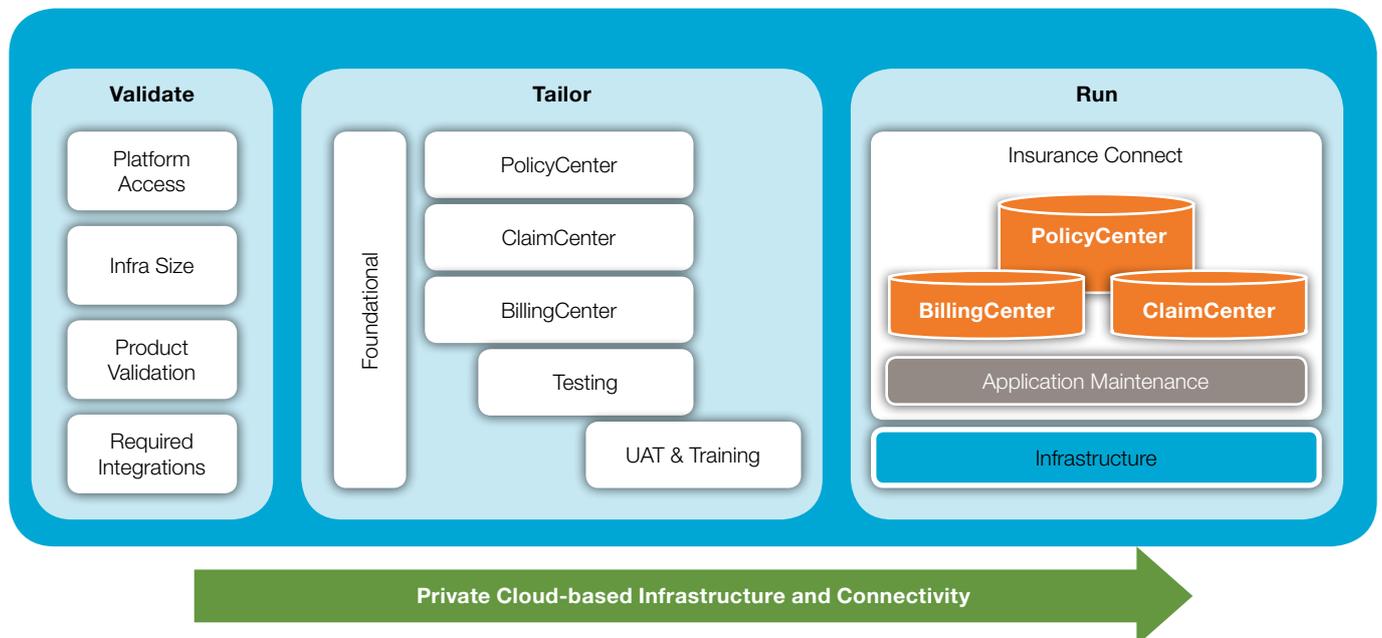

Introducing Capgemini Insurance Connect

Leading analyst Forrester cites Capgemini as an “early pioneer in the area of cloud orchestration,”¹ and names Capgemini as a sample vendor with prebuilt SaaS capability to integrate multiple SaaS solutions.

Capgemini Insurance Connect is a unique Platform as a Service (PaaS) solution designed for smaller P&C carriers hosted by Capgemini in a private cloud environment and pre-configured for specific market segments. It combines the power of the tailored, optimized Guidewire InsuranceSuite™ with market leading, end-to-end services from Capgemini including implementation, integration, deployment, maintenance, and hosting. In addition, Insurance Connect contains a library of key interface capabilities to support financials, document generation and management, statistics and reporting, user authentication, and rating.

Small insurers experience limited upfront costs for access to a pre-configured, best-in-class technology platform—limiting the solution configuration decisions that need to be made, reducing the resource investment and accelerating the pace to go-live. Technology cost is incorporated into the cost of service provisioning over the term of the contract, enabling carriers to effectively and efficiently run policy, billing and claims with predictability in outcomes and total cost of operations.

Reap the Benefits of Capgemini's Cloud-based Solution for Small Insurers

Gain rapid access to best-in-class capabilities, lower overall operating costs and improve the focus on core business functions.

The Capgemini Insurance Connect subscription-based offering provides an opportunity for business differentiation and growth to small insurers by giving them more time and resources to focus on the brand-based expert services that drive value and differentiation. By reducing operating costs, insurers can recognize greater operational efficiencies across their organization and improve throughput through standardization and automation. Market-leading technical capabilities and services offer a one-stop-shop to migrate from legacy systems to a complete full implementation, integration, maintenance and hosting on one platform.

Replace legacy systems that traditionally have been too cost prohibitive to upgrade.

New technology-enabled solutions are in demand by insurers to introduce or modify products faster, to service customers and distribution partners in a differentiated way and to provide needed information across the enterprise. While a challenging mandate, insurers are converging on core platform transformation to drive dramatic improvements in time to market, cost per policy, and operating agility. Insurance Connect offers small insurers an opportunity to achieve on-demand core platform transformation through pre-configured, optimized capabilities as part of a flexible subscription-based model.

Capitalize on an increasing trend in adoption of cloud-based offerings across the P&C enterprise.

Key business and technology issues such as operational flexibility, cost-savings and flexible subscription-based models are driving cloud adoption within P&C insurance. Analysts believe that small insurers are likely to be leading adopters of cloud technologies so they no longer have to maintain IT assets themselves.

Why Cloud Now?

The ability to capture operational flexibility and costs savings, as well as the opportunity to pay-as-you-use are driving cloud computing adoption—so much so that cloud computing is among the top technology priorities for the management of global life and P&C insurance firms. Cloud computing promises many benefits to P&C insurers, including:

- Lower total cost of ownership
- Standardization of systems and processes
- Higher productivity and collaboration
- Economies of scale
- Scalable storage and processing
- Shortened time to implementation
