

Capgemini. Excelling in Asset Management

Capgemini has the knowledge and delivery capabilities to successfully run complex asset management transformation projects from business case and business design through to software package selection, implementation, integration and support.

The Customers' Asset Management Challenge

Today's asset intensive organisations face multiple challenges;

- Ageing assets
- Rising energy costs
- Stringent environmental quality standards
- Tighter regulatory frameworks
- Climate change
- Customer price sensitivity
- Increasing competition

In order to meet these challenges organisations are increasingly embarking on programmes of change to improve their asset management capability and deliver fully optimised performance across the asset base at the lowest whole life cost. By introducing best practice approaches like PAS 55 they aspire to become the 'best in class' in asset management while minimising cost and still delivering a product or service valued by customers.

The Reality

In reality, the absence of a clear asset management business vision and the holistic, fully integrated approach needed to deliver it, means that progress to become 'best in class' is slow. As organisations focus on the day-to-day activity, they struggle to gain the lasting momentum required to make the transformational changes needed. As a result, they ultimately fall short of fulfilling their ambitions.

People matter, results count.

The Capgemini Solution

Capgemini has an in-depth understanding of both asset management and business transformation. We have a targeted, output-driven service to help our asset management clients:

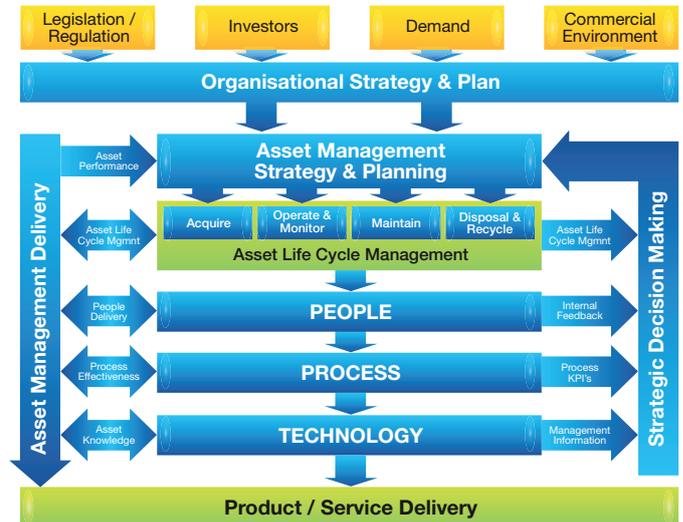

- Assess their current asset management capability
- Establish a clear asset management business vision and
- Define a roadmap of the transformation projects needed to enable the vision
- Create the Business Case to mobilise the improvement project(s) needed to deliver the vision

As a result early successes are created and a lasting momentum generated for longer term change. Timebased RoadMaps and accompanying Business Cases detail the programme of strategically aligned, benefits driven improvements projects needed to achieve their asset management aspirations.

Delivery Accelerators

Our accelerators, methods and templates have been developed and refined through years of experience. Clients benefit from the increased speed of execution, the improved consistency of approach, the quality of the outputs and the reduced cost that our templated approach brings.

Our clients also benefit from our expertise. Our transformation teams have been at the front line of asset management either as engineers, maintenance and reliability professionals or asset managers. This experience gives them a deep understanding of asset management and how best to deliver effective transformational change.
