

Tomorrow's thinking from Capgemini.

RUNNING
TODAY

The successful business of tomorrow will be the one that can profit from continual change. New technology, new opportunities and new customer relationships mean your company must become radically more agile and more responsive.

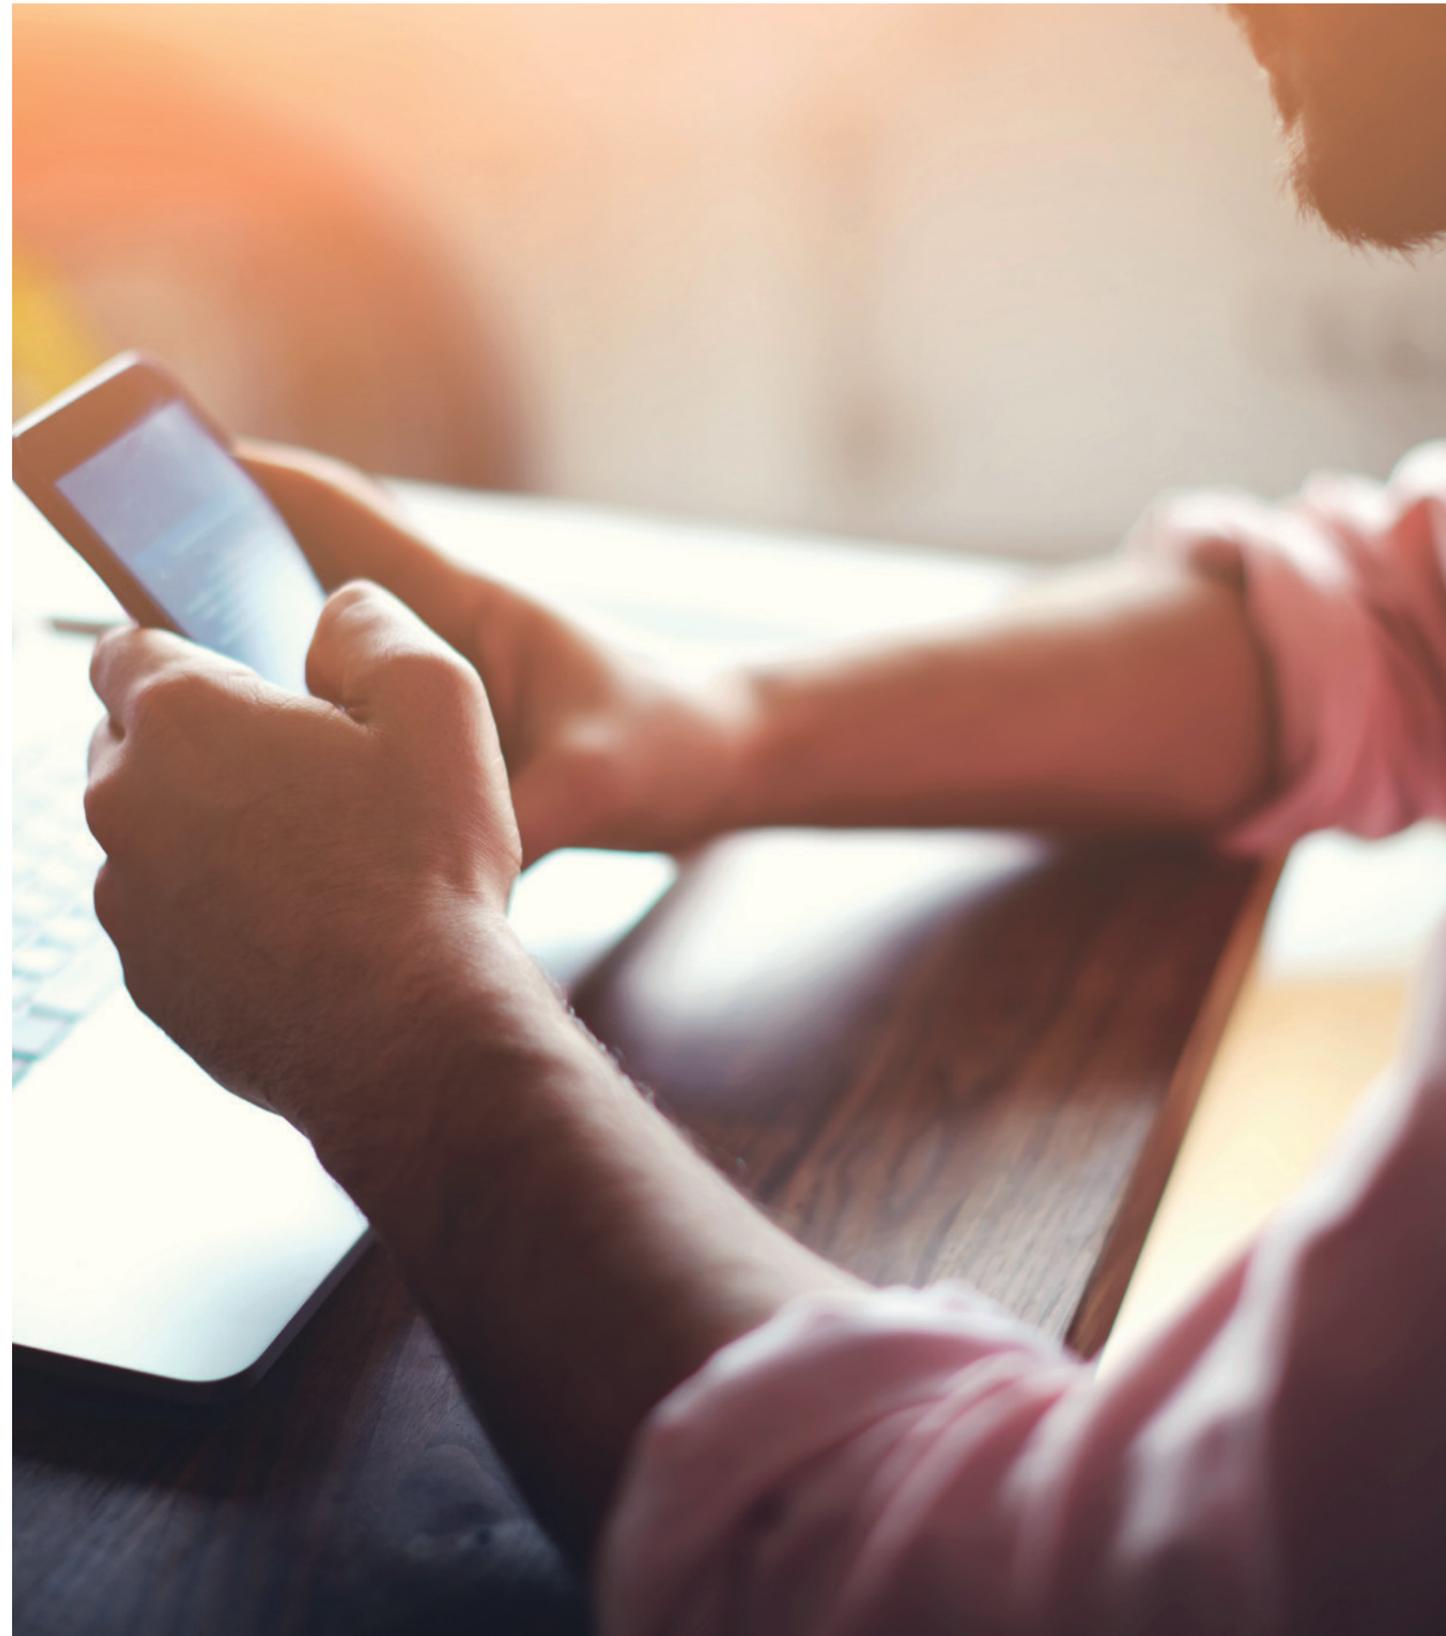

Capgemini is innovating the way we deploy SAP to start giving you these benefits right away. So with tomorrow's thinking from Capgemini on SAP, don't wait until tomorrow – run today.

People matter, results count.

Transform your business with one of the world's leading SAP partners

With over 16,000 SAP experts and 40 years of experience, Capgemini is one of the first to see the new opportunities and potential of SAP's new S/4HANA Suite solutions. Our new thinking means that you can now run your business faster, simpler and better.

RUN SIMPLER

Now you can achieve the business benefits right away, as we move away from monolithic large-scale implementations. Instead, we will help you build a roadmap and deploy through a simpler and faster cycle of continual improvement across all of your business.

This more agile and collaborative process takes into account your specific starting point, your immediate business issues and opportunities and defines a clear course to your optimised Operating Model.

Because the sooner running your business becomes simpler and more responsive, the better.

RUN FASTER

We can now help you run your business faster and more responsively. We will give you real-time understanding of your data and the agility to take advantage of this greater insight into your customers, your products, your employees and your markets.

All of which helps you stay at least a step ahead of your competition.

RUN BETTER

At Capgemini we build better futures for our clients, implementing solutions in ways that give them radically more control over their business and more responsiveness to their customers.

This is how the business of tomorrow will be run.

Why SAP?

SAP has been at the heart of business IT for a long time. So much so that many of their customers take them for granted with little recent activity to evolve their solution

Not any more.

SAP have used their deep understanding of integrated business processes, big data and the emerging connectivity culture to pivot in a new direction with their latest cloud and in-memory computing technologies and applications. And – in principle – these offer fundamentally new opportunities for businesses.

However, all this new business process and analytical power needs to move out of the IT department, and into the boardroom. This is where Capgemini comes in.

Why Capgemini?

Capgemini are one of the world's leading SAP partners, with 40 years' experience. Our focus, however, is always on the business benefits that technology can bring.

So you can move from being in a perpetual game of catch-up with what's happening in your market, or within your organisation, to being able to respond and adapt in real time and to establish genuine relationships with your customers, employees and partners.

As SAP technologies have evolved so have the ways we implement them.

SAP projects used to be thought of as big and expensive. At Capgemini we are turning that idea on its head.

Now you can start getting the business benefits of your SAP investments without having to go all in. Because your company will transform in lots of small iterations, rather than in one disruptive upheaval.

The benefits of this approach are huge. Spreading the cost over time ensures that projects can become self-funding as delivered benefits pay for further parts of the project. There is also greater flexibility to start, stop or change direction as market, company or technology developments influence your business challenges – and therefore your requirements. Making smaller changes can also help you achieve a more positive outcome, as each iteration is easier for the organisation to accept and assimilate.
