

WeKare Changemaker, Pulkit Malhotra

Pulkit is an Electronics Engineer. He has been working with Capgemini for the last five years as an Associate Consultant and is currently working as a developer in the RSA project, FS BU. He has been associated with WeKare (ICare – erstwhile IGATE) for more than four years and has a passion for working and helping others.

He was introduced to CSR by one of his colleagues. At that time, Pulkit had little inclination towards social work. He went for a book donation drive to one of the Capgemini's adopted schools. After meeting the school kids, spending time with them, looking at their sparkling eyes on receiving new books / notebooks, their happiness and smile, not only released him from his own life stress but also gave him an inner peace. This feeling became his inspiration to volunteer towards social work and today, he has become a helping hand for the underprivileged. He believes, it is not the cause but the intention and impact that matters.

There have been many memorable instances in his journey with WeKare, but one of the most memorable moments closest to his heart is the Akshara drive. He still remembers he used to start planning the execution strategy a month before the drive. Summer camp and wall painting activity in one of the NOIDA schools also add to his favorite list. He still has one t-shirt as a memory from that school which has hand impressions of the kids.

Pulkit shares a beautiful message to encourage his colleagues. He says, "Nothing is more precious than time. Take out time to touch those hearts which are deprived of love and affection. A moment is enough to be a #ChangeMaker in someone's life."

Atul Kulshreshtha, Location Head for NCR and Gandhinagar appreciates his work by saying, "Pulkit always believes time is a precious gift which can be spent to create happiness among the needy. He is an active volunteer who inspires more members to get involved in WeKare / CSR activities."
