Meeting the Challenge of FP&A

The role of the CFO is changing. As CFO, you play a strong and strategic role in the running of your company. You anticipate your company's future profitability and performance, and articulate a view on markets, acquisitions and globalization.

With this change comes increasing pressure on FP&A teams to provide actionable insights. FP&A teams are now faced with the challenge of providing these insights based on poor quality data, making the team and the results inefficient and often ineffective. As a result, CFOs find themselves facing a range of challenges, including:

- Limited access to information
- Lack of a formal structure for growth and control initiatives
- Differing perspectives of FP&A stakeholders
- Prioritization of reporting over analysis

Our FP&A Offer

Capgemini's FP&A offer will enable you to standardize and centralize your entire FP&A process, laying the foundations for comprehensive analysis of financials at multiple levels of your organization, and delivering business value by improving:

visibility – by enabling KPI views through dashboarding in any dimension with drill down facility at each level to instantly get into seamless root cause analysis.

agility – through dynamic analysis of financial planning data across your organization, enabling your business to rapidly respond to changing market conditions and streamlining the process to make it faster.

efficiency – through the standardization and consolidation of reports and data model mapping, and by streamlining your FP&A process to optimize the skills, grades and geographic locations of the resources.

Why Capgemini?

Our FP&A services are delivered “as-a-stack” – an “assemble-to-order” approach comprising an integrated mix of layers – including services, processes, applications and infrastructure that deliver benefits from day one.

“FP&A-as-a-Stack” leverages our experience, and that of our best-in-class technology partners, to ensure you get all the benefits of a seamless, tailor-made, cost-effective and intuitive FP&A process – from design to implementation and management.

Your business can count on immediate results from a Capgemini Center of FP&A Excellence built on:
