

Transform Your Participations, Residuals & Royalties Processes to Drive Business Value

People matter, results count.

The Media & Entertainment (M&E) industry is changing and rapid evolution is required to take advantage of revenue-earning opportunities while controlling quality and cost. Until recently, Participations, Residuals and Royalties processing has taken a back seat while companies focused on content, pioneering new channels and shifting customer demand. Old processes and platforms have been retained well beyond their capacity, resulting in increased risk and cost. But today, things are different. Disruption rules and markets are changing. M&E companies must adapt and streamline, in order to conquer the digital landscape.

The Capgemini Participations, Residuals and Royalties solution manages the entire cycle of processing Participations, Residuals and Royalties for the Media & Entertainment industry.

AUTOMATION TO EMBRACE DIGITAL AND ENHANCE CAPABILITY

Offset Increasing Transaction Volume:

The shift to electronic downloads and streaming services like Spotify and YouTube is generating huge transaction volume with lower incremental revenue per transaction. M&E companies must now be able to offset this impact by controlling cost. Through replacing obsolete manual processes and spreadsheets with automated tools, you can successfully manage the increased volumes and corresponding challenges.

Improve Scalability and Flexibility:

By enhancing scalability and increasing flexibility, your enterprise will be better equipped to ramp up and down in new markets, acquire new catalogs, and adapt to changing market conditions that this new, dynamic digital market requires.

Enhance Workflow Management:

Capgemini can automate back office processes so your company will enjoy the benefits of timely and accurate statement and audit completion as volume increases. Efficient use of human capital and automated approval routing are also necessary to effectively respond to the shift to the digital market. Finally, by removing upstream errors in by-title accounting, you can ensure the correct payments are made to talent and content owners.

“What-if” Capability:

The deal makers within your organization need ready access to platform-based “what-if” modeling tools connected to core data for Participations, Residuals and Royalties. With this, modeling for new opportunities is expedited while the requirement for manual effort and customized reports is removed.

SHIFTING CONSUMPTION PATTERNS

Optimize and Standardize Process Operations to Help Manage Complexity:

M&E companies must now leverage their content in all media markets to grow revenues to offset increased competition, cannibalization and shrinking revenue in lagging markets or channels. Because of the resulting complexity there is a need to re-engineer back office processes through the provision of process improvement and strong operations management using the right technology. What's more, this must be done on a global level. This subsequently enables the improved cataloging of newly acquired assets, recognizing liabilities and understanding how best to leverage IP.

Harness the Consumer Shift to Over-the-top (OTT) Content:

TV viewing habits are changing. The domestic user is increasingly consuming content when and where they want, seeking new flexibility not offered by linear programming. The combination of new media, new markets, and new form factors makes it more important than ever to improve and streamline processes while embracing automation.

Recognize the Importance of OTT Content:

Studios are now acquiring "fast and light" content creators specializing in formats targeting OTT viewers. These new channels and new content create new layers of complexity that must be managed and optimized.

OPTIMIZED PROCESSES AND REDUCED RISK AND COST

Eliminate Spreadsheet Fatigue:

By introducing standardized Capgemini practices, your M&E business will enjoy decreased labor costs and fewer delays and errors. You can eliminate archaic spreadsheet-based reporting in favor of modern, efficient platforms, structured processes and targeted controls.

Better Risk Management Capabilities:

Risk-averse co-financing partners expect advanced tools and processes to mitigate risk. Capgemini can bring multiple efficiencies to your enterprise by upgrading your legacy approach to risk mitigation. We enable your company to identify risks and develop a proactive risk mitigation strategy.

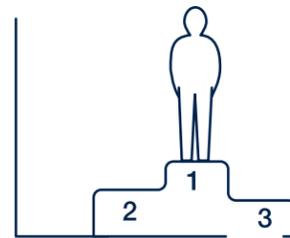

IMPROVED TALENT AND CONTENT OWNER SATISFACTION AND RETENTION

Reduce Audits and Better Results Delivery:

Our Participations, Residuals and Royalties offering expedites the audit process and removes delays, meaning you maintain good relations with your talent while facilitating smoother negotiations. This, in turn, reduces costs and working capital uncertainty. This is particularly important when participants and content owners expect “tolling” rights that can extend audits and increase claims.

Increase Statement and Payment Accuracy:

Capgemini’s best-in-class processes provide better reporting and analytics to identify potential problem areas before they impact content owners or talent, increase liabilities, or constrain working capital. Controls focused on greater accuracy and/or enhanced reporting will improve cooperation and trust.

More Transparency and Fewer Payment Errors:

As social media and broadband access to content accelerates, talent and content owners require centralized tracking of rights and revenues to ensure payments are correct. Capgemini’s solution enhances the accuracy and completeness of data, reducing costly litigation. By removing errors and omissions, you can safeguard your company’s ability to capture top talent and content for the right production.

ENHANCED EFFICIENCY, EFFECTIVENESS AND CONSOLIDATION

Improve Efficiency and IPM Support:

Leverage your workforce by working with our Global Centers of Excellence to improve your overall cost structure. Align process steps with the correct training, job level and location to ensure the optimal mix of intimacy and efficiency.

Increase Effectiveness of Your Organization:

We achieve this using Capgemini’s process management expertise to accelerate reporting and reduce late fees. Rules and trigger automation will also decrease overpayments that can be difficult to recover.

Control Operating Expenses:

In this shifting and disrupted market, process improvement and automation are required to adapt and compete. Today, to be successful, your company must automate and streamline processes to direct additional capital to exciting new opportunities. It is now clear that back office innovation is required to compete in the digital economy.

How does Capgemini help you tackle these challenges?

Improving Participations, Residuals and Royalties accounting with BPO solutions will lead to increased accuracy, fewer audit claims, enhanced performance tracking of IPM, and improved working capital. Capgemini's Global Enterprise Model (GEM) – our proprietary and proven business transformation methodology – will improve your enterprise's scalability and responsiveness, which can also reduce audit reserves and free up working capital.

Put simply, by leveraging Capgemini's services, you can expect world-class business outcomes which can reduce your costs by up to 30%. We will also improve your overall delivery model to amplify your ability to respond to a dynamic and changing market.

THE CAPGEMINI OFFERING – OUR ASSETS

BPO as a Stack:

This is our technology-enabled service to facilitate growth and reduce cost. We use four integrated layers as well as plug-and-play products, which are calibrated to meet your specific business objectives. This model is delivered using Capgemini's proprietary GEM, leveraging each of the seven trusted levers. What does this mean for you, our client? – A lower overall Total Cost of Service.

GEM is already delivering results in many leading Media & Entertainment companies and does not require you to make a capital investment. GEM's levers can be applied collectively or individually in an industrialized approach that optimizes the Participations, Residuals and Royalties process, while allowing sufficient flexibility to tailor the model to your specific needs.

Rapidly integrate the value chain with GEM and reduce operations costs:

You need a stable and repeatable approach to transform and automate your Participations, Residuals and Royalties processes. Capgemini's Global Enterprise Model (GEM) is designed to optimize the Total Cost of Service for you. We achieve this by ensuring the right talent and skills are brought together, working from the most efficient global location with best practices and well-documented processes.
