Capgemini Certified by SAP as Global Provider of Application Management Services

PARIS, February 8, 2010 – Capgemini, one of the world's foremost providers of consulting, technology and outsourcing services, today announced it has been certified by SAP AG as a global provider of application management services after recent audits in North America, India and Spain. The certification reinforces Capgemini's new service line, Application Lifecycle Management, which the Group recently launched to help clients manage the entire lifecycle of applications from development to maintenance, including testing, implementation and optimization.

Capgemini was certified by SAP as a global provider of application management services after a rigorous audit of its expertise in delivering application management services based on SAP technology, both globally and in local markets. The certification is based on industry standards and best practices in application management services and confirmed Capgemini's expert support for the entire application management life cycle, including going live, ongoing maintenance and support and future upgrades.
