Capgemini Chosen to Provide IT Services for Global Automotive Supplier Varroc Lighting Systems

Recent Acquisition Drives Need for Accelerated and Seamless Integration

Paris, New York, December 14, 2012 – Capgemini, one of the world’s foremost providers of consulting, technology and outsourcing services, today announced a $27 million deal to serve as the global strategic partner for all IT services for U.S.-headquartered Varroc Lighting Systems, the former Visteon division and current manufacturer of global automotive exterior lighting products. Capgemini will implement and host a new SAP environment until the end of Q2 2013. Capgemini will also provide ongoing Application Management Services (AMS), hosting, help desk support and the resale of SAP licenses and maintenance to support the company’s global footprint.

Varroc Lighting Systems has selected Capgemini to drive new services in support of the company’s growing global operations based upon their industry experience, including Capgemini’s Center of Manufacturing Excellence (CHROME) SAP offering. The Varroc Group has successfully utilized SAP in its India operations for many years, and now Varroc Lighting Systems will expand and leverage this technology platform.

“Building upon the success of Capgemini’s partnership with other automotive manufacturing companies as a trusted application services provider, we are excited to expand our relationship as we continue to invest in technologies and diversify our global operations,” said Jeff Stevenson, president, Varroc Lighting Systems. “Capgemini’s distinct experience and proven ability to bring a new IT environment online quickly will help us achieve our goals as we expand our lighting business.”

“Global enterprises today require speed and agility from their partners to quickly monetize their investments,” said Lanny Cohen, chief executive officer, Capgemini US LLC. “By leveraging our market leading global SAP capabilities, along with our experience in automotive manufacturing, we can accelerate the delivery of a quality platform that will help Varroc meet their critical growth objectives.”
