Capgemini Appoints David M. Bonner CEO of Americas Outsourcing Services

Bonner's IT and BPO Expertise Bolsters Company's Capabilities in Enabling Business Transformation for North American Clients

New York, (March 8, 2007) — Capgemini, one of the world's foremost providers of consulting, technology and outsourcing services, today announced that David M. Bonner has been appointed chief executive officer of Americas Outsourcing Services. Bonner most recently served as Capgemini's chief operating officer and vice president of delivery services for Americas Outsourcing Services.

Working with Capgemini for the past 20 years, Bonner has built an unparalleled track record in enabling business transformation for clients around the world. With his significant delivery experience in information technology (IT) and business process outsourcing (BPO), Bonner has helped numerous clients overcome a variety of complex business challenges.

"Through his global business insight and steady leadership, Dave Bonner has been instrumental in making Capgemini a market leader in North America," Paul Spence, CEO of Capgemini Global Outsourcing Services said. "Throughout the North American market, companies are increasingly leveraging Capgemini's business transformation capabilities and collaborative business approach. With Dave at the helm, Capgemini will help even more clients achieve superior results and increase shareholder value."

A pioneer in global delivery, Bonner is a champion of Capgemini's Rightshore™ delivery approach, which balances skills and costs by distributing work to the locations which best meet the client's business and financial goals. During his career, he has been instrumental in selling and delivering a number of key client engagements and joint ventures which have built the foundation of Capgemini's outsourcing business in North America.

"This is a critical time for many companies as globalization, consolidation and increased competition continue to drive change across many industries," Bonner said. "The Capgemini outsourcing advantage is that, in concert with the rest of the Capgemini organization, we offer an integrated capability to develop and operate technology solutions and business processes that can transform an organization. The power of this integrated suite of capabilities is that it gives companies the freedom to adapt to change, reduce costs and drive sustained value through growth and innovation.”
