Capgemini Ranked No. 1 Global Outsourcing Vendor
According to “Black Book of Outsourcing” Average Survey Position 2004-2007

Company also Ranks No. 1 for F&A Outsourcing for Third Consecutive Year and No. 2 in Top 50

Paris, France, 5 July 2007 – Capgemini, one of the world's foremost providers of Consulting, Technology and Outsourcing services, today announced that it has been ranked the No.1 global outsourcing vendor based on average survey position per year (2004 – 2007) in the recently published “Black Book of Outsourcing.” For 2007, Capgemini is ranked No. 2 overall and leads in a number of other subcategories.

Now in its fourth year, “The Black Book of Outsourcing” is an annual independent ranking of outsourcing advisors and vendors. For the 2007 edition, more than 21,000 outsourcing users participated – and 4,550 global outsourcing vendors were evaluated.

The annual survey includes the “Black Book Top 50,” a rating of the world’s top outsourcing companies. Over the past four years, Capgemini has maintained a higher average rating than any other company in the Top 50.

“In terms of earning high client satisfaction scores, no other global outsourcing provider in the ‘Black Book Top 50’ has been more consistent than Capgemini,” said Doug Brown, president of the Brown-Wilson Group and “Black Book of Outsourcing” co-author. “Capgemini is especially strong in BPO, ERP, and Infrastructure Management development initiatives, which are not only pleasing customers but are also elevating the company’s respect among competitors.”

“We are very pleased with our rankings in this year’s survey,” said Paul Spence, Head of Global Outsourcing for Capgemini. “Even though we are in the midst of a number of strategic global initiatives, this survey shows that we continue to deliver the highest levels of client service – and not just in 2007, but since the first Black Book survey was published four years ago.”

In addition to its No. 2 rating among the Top 50, Capgemini also ranked highly in a number of important subcategories:

- No.1 – Consulting service providers: transformational outsourcing
- No.1 for the third consecutive year – finance and accounting vendors
- No.2 – Highest sustained survey improvement (2004 – 2007)
- No.2 – Top 10 global information technology outsourcing vendor
