

One Security Portal

Fast, accurate, unified visibility into your organization's security posture, anytime, from anywhere.

The One Security Portal provides single-pane-of-glass visibility into all your managed security services so you can see, understand and improve your security posture.

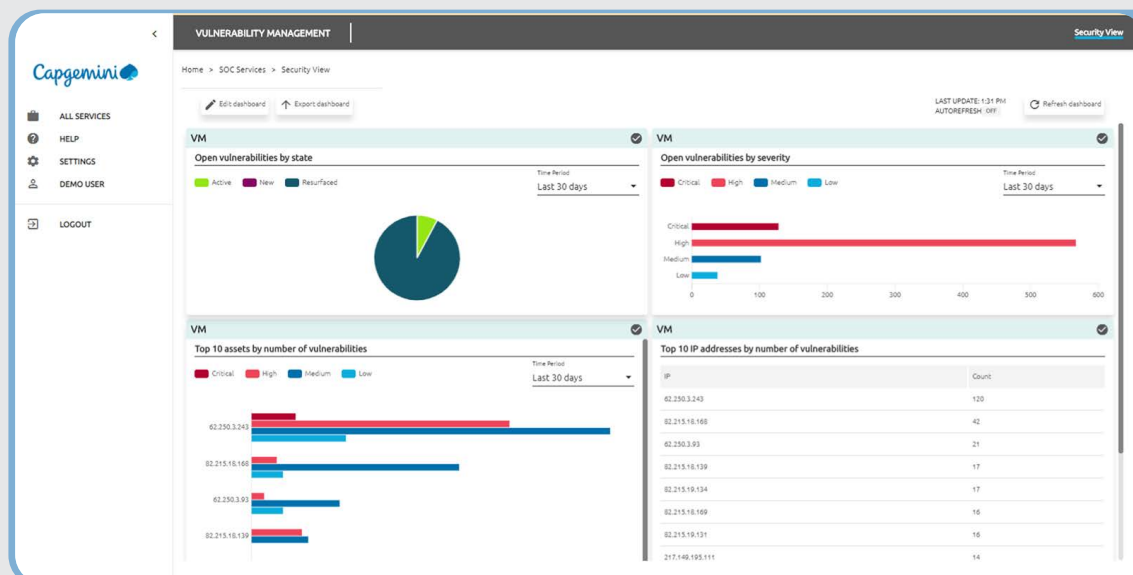

The portal provides both executive-level and operational insights with graphical charts based on accurate, real-time data, so you get a clear picture of how to reduce risks. It integrates all your Capgemini managed security services, provides multiple views of multiple categories of information, and reports on the metrics you need—when and how you need to see them. This enables you to:

- See the threats that need action NOW
- Reduce response times to security alerts
- Get visibility into the security of existing systems and operations
- Centralize security information to improve coordination between security teams

Drill down and see how to improve

With the One Security Portal you can get the details you need to prioritize changes that improve security and compliance. For example, the portal can:

- Integrate with automation tools and ticket systems to automate incident creation tasks, improving the productivity of internal teams
- Track security trends proactively
- Measure the effectiveness of changes
- Identify the top events and source systems to focus staff efforts
- Ensure standardized processes are followed
- Escalate procedures and problem remediation steps
- Identify control gaps
- Get control of compliance for your business

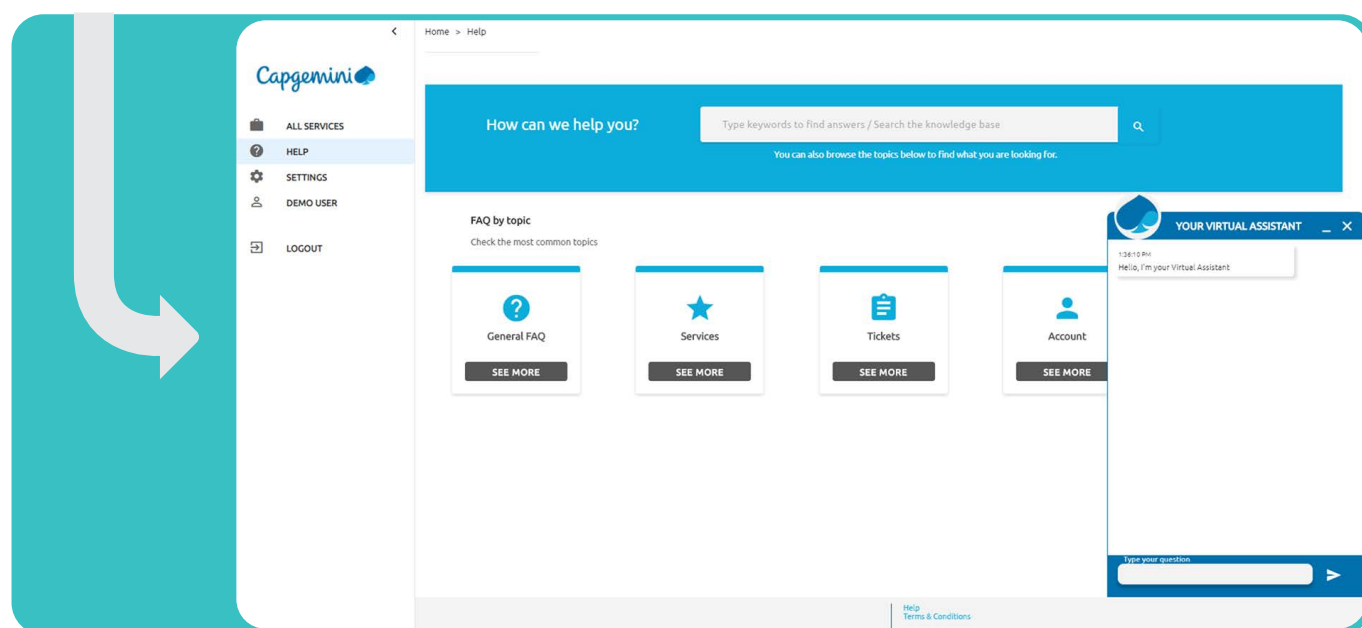

A source of constant improvement

We are constantly updating and enhancing the One Security Portal to help you continuously improve your security posture. For example, it integrates with a plethora of emerging tools for software analysis, application security testing, vulnerability management, VM protection, and more. The portal also supports an ever-expanding number of managed security services.

Compelling advantages of the One Security Portal

- Unified, consistent interface. The One Security Portal is API-driven to maximize interconnectivity and consistency in its interface, so you can assess your security posture quickly, completely and accurately at any time, from anywhere.
- Real-time capabilities: What you see is what's really happening, right now. Competitive solutions delay transmitting the data to the portal.
- The right metrics, the right way: Executives get the high-level view of vulnerabilities and potential business impact; SecOps teams can drill down and get the specifics about the root causes of critical issues.
- A collaborative approach to security: Business leaders can now become more directly involved in cybersecurity and governance because they have better information and they work more closely with the SecOps teams.
- Expertise in automation, AI, and analytics: We can help you automate security processes—even in the cloud—so that your teams can be more productive.
- Sector-specific experience: Capgemini has deep cybersecurity experience and satisfied clients in all industry sectors, including financial services, healthcare, retail, energy, manufacturing, food, travel, entertainment, and more.
- Industry recognition: Capgemini is recognized as a leading cybersecurity and managed security service provider by analyst firms such as Gartner, IDC, NelsonHall, and HfS Research in their respective publications.
- Top talent: Our skilled cybersecurity experts hold industry standard certifications such as CISSP, CISM, CISA, CCSP, including ITIL, CEH, CCIE and other certifications.
- Satisfied clients: We carefully measure and monitor client satisfaction, and the vast majority of our clients are “highly satisfied” with the services they receive.

See how simple strong security can be.
