Immersive technologies have a high impact on the consumer journey

A majority of consumers find immersive experiences in retail, training and education valuable and impactful.

Consumer interest propels the metaverse to the fore

How can immersive technologies help organizations rethink the customer journey and internal operations?